

Facts About Iowa School Boards

Board members are locally elected public officials entrusted with the task of providing direction for the education of students—our future leaders. Iowa school board members represent a continuing commitment to local citizen decision making in public education. School board board members do not receive compensation for their service.

K–12 School Boards

Iowa has 325 school districts with five or seven member school boards. School board members are elected by their local communities in an election held the first Tuesday of November in odd-numbered years. They may be elected at large or from director districts and serve four-year terms.

Area Education Agency Boards

The state’s nine area education agencies (AEAs) are governed by nine member boards serving a four-year term. Five of the nine AEA board members are elected. The remaining four are appointed superintendents.

Community College Boards

Iowa’s 15 community colleges are governed by five-to-nine board members elected by local residents in an election held the first Tuesday of November in odd-numbered years. They are elected to four-year terms.
